

Never Ending Card instructions

By Etha Schuette

There are numerous instructions available on the web on how to make the neverending card. I do not know where this originated or whose idea it was to begin with, I claim nothing ;)

Just want to add my take to the pool here!

For a 6 by 6 inch card, start with 4 pieces of card stock cut to 3 by 6 inches each. Score each piece along the long center line at 1.5 inch and score each short side also at 1.5 inches. I used 4 different colors here just for clarity so you can follow where each piece ends up. After scoring, arrange your pieces as shown and glue the two squares together in the 4 corners only. The top layer/fron has the cut going vertically. I am temporarily holding two pieces each together with removable tape. After glueing, you can trim any sides that came out messy or crooked. Once your pieces are glued, you will start folding. As you work with this the folds will become more pronounced and it gets easier. You can see some of my dirty yard fingers in some of the pictures because the card will not lay flat yet ☺

From the front, open up the two sides and bend them to the back to reveal level 2. Lift up the center top panel, down the center bottom panel to reveal the third level:

You are bending and creasing the folds as you go for the first time. Now open up the two center parts from level 3 to reveal level 4:

Now if you open up level 4, you will be at the beginning again. You have many choices how to decorate this card, I like to add stamped or designer paper panels to it, but it can also be stamped or decorated right on the base card.

Here is a suggestion for panel arrangement:

You can see that the main areas from level 3 peek through to level 2, keep that in mind when you are decorating your card. Have fun!!

Printed from blog: <http://ethaschuetten.com>

Distribute freely ☺